

Genetic screens are like ultrasounds for your DNA

Noninvasive prenatal screening

Determines risk of baby having a chromosome condition

Carrier screening

Determines baby's risk of having a condition passed down from the mother and father

Genetic screens can help you plan and prepare

Speak with a specialist

Find a hospital for delivery that is equipped to manage newborns with genetic conditions

In some cases there are early interventions for the baby that can be planned for

Talk with a genetic counselor or work with a support group to understand what lies ahead